

ICE THREATENING GALENA AVENUE BRIDGE

WASHINGTON—To get the full picture of the economic theories discussed by all the business and Brain Trust delegations visiting the White House recently, it is necessary to look behind the scenes and see what is happening in the president's inner councils.

The much fanfare business conferences are largely window-dressing. But some good is coming out of them, chiefly the fact that Roosevelt is getting a better understanding of the business man's viewpoint and they, in turn, are getting a better understanding of his.

However, the real struggle is not taking place in these conferences. The battleground is in the president's own family of advisers. They are split into two diametrically opposite camps on all important questions of monopolies.

On his one side sits a group which advocates trust-busting. On the other side sits a group which advocates trust regulation. And the undercurrent tug-of-war between them may have far-reaching effects upon the nation's economic structure.

Here are the rival line-ups:

Trust-Busters
Robert H. Jackson, Assistant Attorney General and the president's personal choice for governor of New York, is the No. 1 trust-buster. He was behind the prosecution of the big auto finance companies in Milwaukee, and behind the plan to crack down on the big movie companies for violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust act.

Harold Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, life-long foe of monopolies, is the President's chief hatchet man against them.

William O. Douglas, brilliant young chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, is the third member of the trust-busting group.

Trust-Regulators
On the other side of the fence are members of the President's original Brain Trust, now come back to the battlefield. They are:

Rexford Guy Tugwell, former Co-

BODIES BROUGHT FROM CRASHED PLANE ON PEAK

Flagstaff, Ariz., Jan. 31.—(AP)—The charred bodies of Gerard F. Vultee, 38-year-old aeronautical designer, and his wife, Sylvia, 27, were brought to Flagstaff early today from snow-covered Mount Wilson, where their flaming airplane fell Saturday.

The bodies were borne out of the rugged region on stretchers to a waiting truck.

Twelve men or more than 100 who set out reached the ship after struggling for hours through the deep snow. Members of the party said the bodies were burned so badly that they were identified only through a wrist watch on Vultee's arm.

The sheriff's office said instructions had been received to cremate the bodies here and send the ashes to Los Angeles.

The Vultees had been en route to Glendale, Calif., their home, from Winslow, Ariz. The scene of the crash was a small peak 33 miles from here.

Edward L. Robinson, CCC worker and one of three persons who first located the wreckage, described the scene as "just a black spot" on the small, snow-blanketed plateau.

Robinson said the plane apparently caught fire in the air. Vultee and his wife appeared to have been locked in the cabin, Robinson reported to Sheriff Arthur Vandever, leader of the expedition which since Saturday had sought the bodies.

Vultee, whose aircraft designs included large bombers purchased by Soviet Russia, was flying without radio apparatus and was not aware that he was heading into a storm.

Engineer Calls Bulgarian King Over Telephone

Falls City, Neb., Jan. 31.—(AP)—The big news in Falls City today was Railroad Engineer Gus Phillips' trans-Atlantic telephone call to King Boris of Bulgaria, on the occasion of his majesty's birthday anniversary.

Phillips and King Boris became acquainted in 1932. Both found mutual interest in railroad engineering problems.

The engineer left his run on the Missouri Pacific railroad at Omaha yesterday to make the call.

"Your majesty, this is Phillips speaking from America," the engineer said. "I am extending you my sincere greetings. Good health and a long life to yourself * * *. My love to all Bulgaria."

The king answered: "Thank you very much for your kind wishes," and then inquired about the weather.

U. S. ACCEPTS JAPS' APOLOGY FOR SLAPPING

Just One of Several Incidents Leading To Friction

Washington, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The United States accepted today Japan's expressions of regret for the slapping Wednesday at Nanking of John M. Allison, the third secretary in charge of the embassy there, by a Japanese sentry.

The state department, making this announcement, made public a report from Allison which said the Japanese planned to court-martial the commanding officer and 20 men of the unit involved in the incident.

Japan's apology was oral, in response to oral representations made Saturday at Tokyo by Ambassador Grew.

The envoy was instructed to stress that the incident represented only one of a series of occurrences involving American-Japanese friction, which could not be dissociated from cases of disregard of American rights by Japanese soldiers at Nanking. The state department still is awaiting a reply to the note of protest over these incidents given Japan January 17.

Ambassador Grew reported to the state department the Japanese vice minister of foreign affairs expressed to him in the name of the Japanese government profound regret at the assault on Allison and gave assurances that after strict investigation the Tokyo government would take suitable and adequate measures to punish those concerned in this affair.

CHINESE REPORT GAINS
Shanghai, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Chinese and Japanese troops fought a series of heavy engagements along the Tientsin-Pukow railway today, with Chinese asserting they had pushed back Japanese invaders at strategic points.

Japanese driving northward along the Tientsin-Pukow road toward Suohow, junction point with the Lunghai "lifeline" railway, were said to have been driven back to Mingkwang, 38 miles southeast of Pengu.

Chinese dispatches from the bitterly-contested Tientsin-Pukow front asserted 1,000 Japanese soldiers had been killed.

Pengu, approximately 95 miles south of Suohow, has been the focal point of the Japanese advance northward fromanking. Another column has been attempting to march southward toward Suohow from bases in southern Shantung province.

Chinese asserted their forces had captured a large number of Japanese prisoners near Mingkwang, and announced successes in continuous guerrilla warfare on all fronts.

In Hopei province where Japanese have conquered the great cities of Peiping and Tientsin, Chinese asserted one of their flying columns of guerrillas clashed with a Japanese force at Kaoyang, 20 miles east and south of Paotingfu, Hopei province capital. Japanese were said to have retreated there after suffering 100 casualties.

Coincident with the Chinese reports of guerrilla gains came Japanese announcements that bombing planes had attacked Haichow, eastern terminus of the Lunghai

No Immediate Relief From Bitter Cold in Sight, Forecaster States

Chicago, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Zero weather gripped Chicago today after a sudden temperature drop of 45 degrees. Forecaster J. R. Lloyd of the weather bureau said no immediate relief was in sight.

Fair and continued cold weather was forecast for Illinois tonight, with increasing cloudiness for Tuesday and "not so cold in the afternoon."

From yesterday's high mark of 45 the temperature dropped to zero at 7 a. m. today and then climbed slightly. Police stations in the suburbs reported readings as low as four below. The only other of-

Swell Ride

Chicago, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Two young sisters who had been reported missing from their Lancaster, Wis., home, were detained here today after a streamlined train ride from East Dubuque, Ill.

The girls, Shirley Mink, 15, and her sister, Jean, 9 years old, were taken into custody when they alighted from a train last night.

"We just wanted to visit our aunt in Aurora," they said, "but gee, that streamlined train ride was swell."

The girls said they withdrew $11 savings from a bank several days ago, and yesterday took a bus ride to Dubuque, Ia., then boarded the train.

DR. HARRY ELGIN WEBSTER PASSED AWAY SATURDAY

Death Came To Former Dixon Surgeon In Hillsboro, N. D.

Dr. Harry Elgin Webster, formerly of this city passed away Saturday at the home of his sister, at Hillsboro, N. Dak., where he had been making his home. The body was brought to Dixon and funeral services will be conducted at the Preston funeral home Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. George Nielsen, pastor of Grace Evangelical church will officiate and interment will be in Oakwood.

Dr. Webster was paroled a few years ago from Joliet prison, to which he had been sentenced for life by the late Judge Richard S. Farrand of this city, in Ogle County Circuit court, about 25 years ago for the murder of his wife, Bessie Kent Webster of Chicago, whose body was found in Shores woods, on the Lowell park road, just before the Lee-Ogle county line, while he was a most promising interne in a Chicago hospital.

Participants Dead
The state, represented by the late William E. Emerson of Oregon, contended the young man had killed his wife to prevent revelation of his bigamous marriage to a Cedar Rapids, Ia. girl, Zoe Varney, when both young women insisted on his bringing them to Dixon to meet his relatives and friends. Webster was represented by Attorney John E. Erwin of Dixon, also deceased.

His parole was his reward for exceptionally meritorious service in the prison hospital and his excellent behavior as a prisoner.

Youth Apprehended in Service Station

A youth who gave the name of Wilbur Marth awaits arraignment in the Lee county court tomorrow on a charge of breaking into and entering the Morris Wernich service station east of Dixon on the Lincoln highway, in which he was apprehended at about 11 o'clock Saturday night by State Officer Edward Mahan and Merchant Policeman McIntyre, after the officers had been notified by Wrenich that he had seen lights in the building after he had closed up and departed for the night. The youth is alleged to have gained entrance to the building by breaking a rear window.

Leahy Emphasizes Naval Expansion Is Imperative

Washington, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The navy's chief of operations told Congress today the "enormous increases" in naval strength undertaken recently by Great Britain and Japan made it imperative for the United States to strengthen its fleet immediately.

Admiral William D. Leahy, testifying before the House naval committee, asserted this country's national security has been jeopardized by the ships armament programs launched by foreign powers since expiration of the 1930 London naval treaty.

He appeared before the committee to discuss legislation to carry out President Roosevelt's recommendations for an $800,000,000 naval expansion program.

Describing political conditions in the world as "far more threatening than at any time since 1918," Leahy added there was "no improvement in sight."

AIR ATTACKS SPREAD DEATH IN BARCELONA

Civilian Emergency Crews Dig Bodies From Wreckage

Barcelona, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Emergency crews of civilians impressed by police raids on cafes, theaters and cabarets dug wearily today at wreckage left by two Sunday insurgent raids—seeking bodies they never may find.

The revised official casualty list, admittedly incomplete, said there were 153 known dead, including 47 children. Previously officials had estimated more than 300 were killed.

There may never be a complete list because many bodies were blown to bits by tons of bombs dumped on the provisional government capital yesterday when insurgent planes swept in from the sea.

The two raids were scarcely an hour apart. Whole buildings were demolished by the dozens of 440-pound bombs and smaller missiles.

Quick retaliation for what the government called "Franco's deadly answer" to its proposal for an air truce for behind-the-lines cities was taken for granted.

It will be "an eye for an eye" hereafter, officials declared.

With regular rescue squads near exhaustion and with groans and screams of the wounded still coming from the unexplored debris, police late last night descended on amusement places, stopped the entertainments and demanded the services of idlers.

Some places actually were raided and the patrons rounded up. They were given picks and shovels and ordered to follow the police to the wrecked buildings.

OPEN SOUTHERN PUSH

Hendaye, France, at the Spanish Frontier, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The insurgent army took the offensive today in mountainous southwest Spain after air raiders subjected government Barcelona to two of the worst bombings of the civil war.

Bombing squadrons sweeping in from the sea littered the port city with more than 300 dead and 700 wounded.

Advices from Barcelona said there were 158 war orphan children in the basement of an old church on which the planes scored four direct hits.

The insurgents' new land offensive rolled back the thinly-manned government lines north of Cordoba, along the border of Badajoz province. Tanks and planes supported infantry in the attack.

Insurgent communiques said the drive was forcing government troops back to the east, through the rugged mining region starting with Acheuche, just east of Campillo.

The government admitted it had been forced to abandon some positions but asserted the operations were localized, with no major objective. The government said a counter-attack was "on the way."

The offensive in this long-quiet region diverted attention temporarily from the Teruel sector, where government and insurgent troops have been deadlocked for weeks since the government's capture of Teruel.

The insurgents described the latest air raids on Barcelona as acts of reprisal for recent government aerial attacks on Salamanca, the insurgents' headquarters city.

Veteran Fatally Hurt In Fall From Train at Franklin Gr. Saturday

Nebraska Man Died in Dixon Hospital Sunday Morn

Thomas H. Sturek, 47, of Bartlett, Neb., sustained fatal injuries when he is believed to have fallen from a west-bound Northwestern freight train west of the west crossing at Franklin Grove Saturday evening about 5 o'clock, death occurring in the Katherine Shaw Betha hospital at 1:30 Sunday morning. Coroner K. B. Seger conducted an inquest at the Jones funeral home at 10:30 today, the jury returning a verdict of death due to shock and injuries, accidentally sustained.

Raymond Cook of Franklin Grove stepped into the yard of his home about 7:30 Saturday evening, and heard groans and a man's voice calling, "Some one come and help me." Obtaining his flashlight, Cook located the man lying in a field about 150 feet west of the crossing, bleeding profusely from a deep scalp wound. Cook summoned others and the man was taken to the Hick funeral home and later was brought to the Dixon hospital.

Last Recollection
Sturek was conscious and answered some questions, giving his name and stating that the last he remembered he was riding on a train, bound for his home. Cook stated that the injured man stated that some one must have struck him on the head. A trail of blood led from the point where the body was found to the main line track of the railroad. A large pool of blood in a ditch along the right of way indicated that he had lain near the tracks for some time after falling from the train and papers found in his possession showed that he had passed several physical examinations recently and was to have entered the employ of a Chicago advertising firm this week. A membership card in James Kessler post, No. 299, American Legion, of Spaulding, Neb., was among his possessions, together with a medal which indicated that he had been stationed at the Great Lakes naval training station in 1922.

An east bound extra freight arrived in Franklin Grove shortly after the body had been found, and the crew was notified.

Buried in Dixon

Rae A. Arnold, service officer of Dixon post No. 12 American Legion, opened an investigation Saturday evening in an effort to locate relatives of Surek. He succeeded in communicating with the sheriff at Bartlett, Neb., and a brother, Charles Surek, of Omaha. The latter requested that the local post of the American Legion take charge of the body and arrange for burial at Dixon. A telegram received this morning by Mr. Arnold stated that Surek had served in the navy for 20 months period when he was stationed at Puget Sound.

Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday morning at 9:30 from St. Patrick's Catholic church with interment in Oakwood, officers and members of Dixon Post No. 12, American Legion, having charge of the committal service at the grave.

DIED ABOARD TRAIN

DeKalb, Ill., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Dr. R. P. Culver, coroner, said today heart disease caused the death last night of O. D. Johnson, 47, of Ringwood, Iowa, as he rode in the caboose of a Northwestern road stock train taking some of his cattle to Chicago.

The case later was assigned to Federal Judge John P. Barnes, and U. S. District Attorney Michael L. Igoe expected to confer with him concerning Seadlund's arraignment.

DEVINE SILENT ON CANDIDACY AT CONFERENCE

Former Speaker Keeps Own Counsel; Spends Today In Chicago

Chicago, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Chairman Bruce A. Campbell of the Democratic state committee came here today for party conferences that may dispel the uncertainty about whom the Kelly-Nash organization in Cook county will support for United States Senator in the April 12 primary.

P. A. Nash, Cook county chairman, said he expected Campbell to call an early meeting of the state committee to consider a senatorial endorsement and a slate of candidates for three other offices.

Campbell, Belleville attorney, joined the Chicago city hall Democratic faction against Governor Horner in the 1936 primary split. His conferences today were expected to be with Nash and Mayor Edward J. Kelly.

Also expected today was a report from the committee named last week to pick a Democratic organization slate for the Cook county offices, but Nash said the report would not cover state contests.

Nash Drops Hint

Latest hint about what the Kelly-Nash faction may do with respect to the senatorship came from Nash, who remarked in a press conference that he knew President Roosevelt wanted U. S. Senator William H. Dieterich of Beardstown returned for a second term. Nash denied, however, the Chicago leaders had pledged support to Dieterich.

The Nash statement only heightened the disconcertion engendered by the downstate moves in behalf of District Attorney Michael L. Igoe of Chicago, the potential candidacy of John P. Devine of Dixon and the continued parleys of Horner faction leaders on the subject of an anti-Dieterich candidate.

Devine Is Silent

Speculation attached also to the attitude of Horner Democrats on the state central committee when and if Chairman Campbell summons a meeting to pick a slate.

Break at the North End of the Dam Is to be Closed as Soon as Conditions Permit, by the Driving of Sheet Piling.

A barge was being taken to the site today, but progress was slow because of the high water and heavy floating ice. Two more sections of the dam gave way over the week end and were washed away by the rapidly rising water, which reached the high point of the present season at noon. At that time, a total of 138 feet of the dam had been swept away and other sections were in danger.

The solid concrete pier west of the Galena avenue bridge, supporting poles carrying high voltage transmission lines, supplying north side patrons of the I. N. U. company, gave way Sunday morning at 6 o'clock, under the pressure.

Rise Continued

The water above the dam at 10 o'clock this morning had risen three feet while the tail water measurements below the dam showed an increase of seven and one-half feet since 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Ice gorges and the one inch rain-fall of Saturday night had brought the river up to the high point of the season and it

MINIMUM WAGES— ASSURED WOMEN BY NEXT MONTH

Will Mean Increase In Pay For Retail Clerks

The "five-and-dime" girls are about to get their "New Deal."

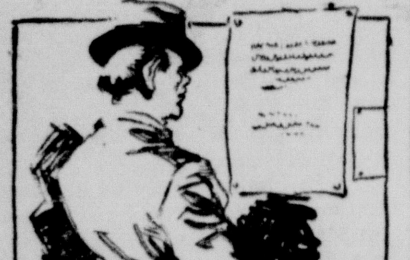

In February, minimum-wage rates for women employees of retail stores will go into effect in the District of Columbia and the state of Utah. A minimum wage of $17 a week for experienced women employees of retail stores has been established in the nation's capital, effective February 14, and a minimum of $16 a week is prescribed in Utah, effective February 1. These minimum-wage rates result from the United States Supreme Court's decision of last March upholding the constitutionality of the Washington state minimum-wage law and leading to a wave of new minimum-wage legislation and the revival of old minimum-wage laws.

According to a report just published by the Women's Bureau of the United States department of labor, the minimum wage should mean an increase in pay for every sales clerk included in the survey of limited-price stores in the city of Washington. In Utah, too, the minimum wage should mean a rather general increase in wages in this type of store. Women's Bureau studies show that regularly employed saleswomen in limited-price stores averaged $12.50 a week in the District of Columbia and $14 a week in Utah during a representative pay period in 1937. Half of the women received less and half received more than these amounts.

Highest Established
The minimum-wage rates prescribed for women retail clerks in the District of Columbia and Utah are the highest so far established, outside of Nevada, which has written an $18 weekly minimum into its wage law. On an hourly basis the District of Columbia minimum wage might be higher than that in Nevada, for the $17 minimum applies to a work week of from 40 to 48 hours or even shorter, whereas in Nevada the $18 need not be paid.

STAMPS IN THE NEWS

IRELAND WINS its CONSTITUTION

EXACTLY 15 years ago King George V recognized the constitution that gave Ireland dominion status in the British Empire. And almost immediately the Irish Free State planned for even greater independence. Ulster, traditionally Protestant, was not included in the Free State.

The oath of allegiance to the British king was abolished first. The office of governor general was next vacated. Appeal from the Free State courts to the Privy Council was also ended.

Now goes into operation a new constitution for the new state of "Eire." Largely the brainchild of President Eamon de Valera, the document was approved last June by the Irish Parliament and then ratified in a popular plebiscite. It goes much farther than the first constitution, for though Ireland remains within the British Empire, nowhere goes the instrument to the empire. The constitution proclaims that Northern Ireland must eventually be united with Eire to unify the new Ireland of independence.

A 1931 Irish stamp bearing the new state name Eire (or Ireland in English), is shown.

Don't experiment with Children's Colds

Relieve Their Misery This Proved Way

WHEN your child comes down with a cold, you can't afford to take needless risks. Use the treatment that has been doubly proved for you—Vicks VapoRub. It has been proved by everyday use in more homes than any other medication of its kind—further proved by the largest clinical tests ever made on colds. (Full details in every VapoRub package.) Only Vicks give you proof like this.

Vicks VapoRub is direct external treatment. There's no dosing—no risk of spoiling appetite, or disturbing a delicate digestion. VapoRub can be used freely, as often as needed, even on the youngest child.

You simply massage VapoRub on throat, chest, and back (as illus-for anything less than 48 hours. California has a minimum-wage rate of $16 a week, but the maximum number of hours allowed is 48, whereas in Utah the $16 rate is for 42½ hours a week and anything above 42½ hours is to be paid for as overtime at "time and a half."

In the long process of determining minimum-wage rates that will be acceptable to employers, employees, and the general public, the minimum-wage boards of both Utah and the District of Columbia have the benefit of data assembled by the Women's Bureau under the direction of Miss Mary Anderson. The Bureau made studies last year of wages and hours of women workers in these two sections of the country, as well as in Colorado, Florida, and Kentucky. Similar studies were made in recent years in Arkansas, Delaware, Tennessee, Texas, and West Virginia.

1937 Wages Low

The report on the city of Washington study, "Women's Hours and Wages in the District of Columbia in 1937," just published, shows that the wages of women in limited-price stores in 1937 were extremely low, as compared with a minimum wage soon to go into effect, but that those women employed in laundries, restaurants, and in the lodging departments of hotels were even lower. The District of Columbia minimum wage board has so far determined only the minimum wage rate for employees in retail trade, but the Women's Bureau in its recent study compares wages paid in 1937 with the old minimum-wage rates established by the former minimum wage board of the District of Columbia, which functioned before the law was declared unconstitutional in 1923.

Not one woman sales clerk in the limited-price stores surveyed in 1937 was paid as much as $16.50 a week, the minimum wage for such employees in effect prior to 1923, the Women's Bureau found. Moreover, 98 per cent of the women received less than $15 a week and half of them had earnings of less than $12.50 a week. Three in five worked the full legal limit in the District of Columbia—48 hours a week—and averaged only $13.

Less Than $16.50 a Week

In the ready-to-wear stores, three-tenths of the non-office workers received less than $16.50 a week and in department stores not very far from one-half of the workers had less than the old minimum wage. Sales clerks and alteration workers each averaged nearly $17 in department stores and almost $19 in ready-to-wear stores, but bundle girls and other non-office employees, not included in the sales and alteration categories, received on the average only about $13 a week in department stores and $15 a week in ready-to-wear stores. In these two types of stores the usual hours worked were 45 a week instead of 48 as in the limited-price stores. In ready-to-wear stores, also, almost as many women worked 36 and under 40 hours as worked 45 hours.

The present task of the District of Columbia minimum wage board, that of determining an adequate wage for women employed in hotels and restaurants, may make even more startling changes in pay rates of Washington women workers than those indicated in the retail trade. Take for instance the new kind of waitress who has appeared in the last few years, the curb-service girl who greets motorists in front of "hot shoppes" and clamps trays of hamburgers and coffee to waiting cars. Her status will be radically changed if anything like a $17 minimum wage is established for women employees in the hotel and restaurant business. Three out of five of the Washington study in 1937 received no cash wage and only a small proportion of those with cash wages received as much as $4 a week. Only about 1 in 5 of the girls who received cash wages were given meals though four out of five girls without wages had meals on the job. Tips were the mainstay but in some cases these amounted to as little as $2 a week. Most of the girls surveyed worked on shifts that ended at midnight or later, many at 2 or 2:30 in the morning.

Women in Restaurants

The former District of Columbia minimum wage board established a minimum wage of $16.50 a week for women wage earners in the hotel and restaurant business, the same amount as in the mercantile business. In 1937 only 8 to 12 per cent of the women in the hotels and restaurants surveyed by the Women's Bureau were earning as much as $16.50 a week.

Slapped in New Eastern Incident

Chinaking a series of "incidents" in China which the United States has "emphatically" protested, U. S. Consul John M. Allison, above, became the center of newest discord when he was slapped by a Japanese sentry Japanese apologized, but said Allison refused to leave a building occupied by Japanese forces. Earlier the State Department had warned Japan against repetition of such "outrages" as tearing down the American flag and invading American property.

wage board ruling were to receive $15 a week as a minimum wage. The Women's Bureau found in 1937 that seven-tenths of the women in dry-cleaning establishments and nine-tenths of those in laundries were paid less than $15 a week.

The former minimum wage board established rates only for the mercantile, hotel and restaurant, laundry, dry-cleaning, and printing and publishing industries. The present District of Columbia minimum wage board will set up minimum-wage rates for all groups of workers that appear to need such protection, with the exception of domestic servants and government workers. The Women's Bureau report shows that women factory workers and office workers in some branches of private employment in the District of Columbia are just as much in need of wage protection as most retail saleswomen. Earnings of office workers in the dry-cleaning establishments visited, for example, averaged $13.80 a week. Earnings of factory workers included in the survey averaged $13.35 a week.

Telephone Service Highest

Highest-paid workers surveyed were in the telephone service. The average weekly wage of office workers in the telephone service was $23.38 and of telephone operators, $22.03. Beauty operators in stores had the next highest average weekly wage, $19.65, followed by non-office employees in ready-to-wear shops, $18.60, and women employees of beauty shops not in stores, $17.80.

When these earnings are compared with those of women workers in Utah and Florida in 1937, they seem to bear little relationship to living costs. For example, average wages of laundry workers and saleswomen in limited-price stores were lower in the District of Columbia than in Utah, whereas those of department store workers and of hotel lodging employees were higher in the

The first plane of its kind, the metal-skinned Lockheed monoplane above was designed to U. S. The cabin is arranged to make possible sea level pressure and oxygen content at high altitudes.

District of Columbia than in Utah. The Florida survey also showed higher average weekly earnings for department-store employees in that state ($14.90) than in Utah ($13.50), but in other occupations reported earnings in Florida were smaller than in the other two places surveyed. Chambermaids and other hotel-lodging workers averaged $8.30 a week in Florida, $11.50 in the District of Columbia, and $10.85 in Utah. Laundry workers $9.20 in Florida, $10.90 in the District, and $11.05 in Utah. Laundry workers averaged $9.20 in Florida, $10.90 in the District, and $11.05 in Utah. Limited-price store clerks had average earnings of $12.25 in Florida, as compared with $12.50 in the District and $14 in Utah.

Boards in Session
The minimum-wage boards currently or recently in session in Massachusetts, Minnesota, New York, and Oklahoma, as well as in Utah and the District of Columbia, are attempting to set minimum-wage rates that will be related to the cost of living of women workers.

Minimum-wage laws for women are now on the statute books of 22 states—Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Illinois, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Nevada,

New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Utah, Washington and Wisconsin—and the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico. There is some possibility that minimum-wage bills will be introduced this year into the state legislatures of Kentucky, Michigan, and Virginia.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Love" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 30.

The Golden Text was, "We have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him" (1 John 4:16).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Sing, O daughter of Zion; shout, O Israel; be glad and rejoice with all the heart. O daughter of Jerusalem. The Lord thy God in the midst of thee is mighty; he will save, he will rejoice over thee with joy; he will rest in his love, he will joy over thee with singing" (Zephaniah 3:14, 17).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "People go into ecstasies over the sense of a corporal Jehovah, though with scarcely a spark of love in their hearts; yet God is Love, and without Love, God, immortality cannot appear. . . . Mortals believe in a finite personal God; while God is infinite Love, which must be unlimited" (p. 312).

Liverpool's name is believed to be derived from the Norse words meaning the "pool of the slopes."

Pecan Parfait Tasty Recipe

What homemaker doesn't welcome a new way of serving a favorite dish.

Ice cream is often termed the great American dessert, and home-made varieties are growing in popularity now that mechanical refrigeration has simplified the making.

This Maple Pecan Parfait is "something special" and yet it is inexpensive and easy to prepare. Marshmallows keep this ice cream out of the "icy" class and make it a good treat to serve at children's parties. This recipe will serve five generously.

Three-fourths packet (12 marshmallows); one-fourth cup water; two egg whites; one-half pint of whipping cream; one-fourth cup pecan meats, cut fine; one-fourth teaspoon maple extract.

Place marshmallows and water in a saucepan and heat over low flame until marshmallows are melted. Beat eggs until stiff, then pour the marshmallow mixture over egg whites, beating thoroughly. Fold in the stiffly-whipped cream; add nut meats and flavoring and pour into freezing tray of mechanical refrigerator. Turn control to lowest point and freeze until firm. The nuts may be omitted from this recipe.

Novel Beverage
Marshmallows also are used in a novel afternoon beverage. Melt two ounces chocolate. Place one and one-half cups milk and one cup of strong coffee infusion in a saucepan and heat to the scalding point. Combined with the melted chocolate, add a pinch of salt and blend.

well. Then add ten marshmallows and heat over a low flame, beating constantly with a rotary egg beater until marshmallows are melted and mixture is creamy. Serve at once, with sandwiches or wafers.

Cabbage With Cheese
One small cabbage; two tablespoons shortening; two tablespoons flour; one-half teaspoon salt; one-eighth teaspoon pepper; one and one-half cups milk; four tablespoons grated American cheese.

Shred the cabbage. Cook until tender. Drain and leave in a heated colander at the side of the stove while a white sauce is prepared. Cook together the shortening, flour, salt and pepper. Add the milk gradually. Cook until the sauce has reached the consistency of thick cream, then add the grated cheese to the sauce and beat well. Place the cabbage in a hot vegetable dish, pour the sauce over it and serve immediately.

Banana Waffles
One and one-half cups sifted flour; four teaspoons sugar; one and one-half teaspoons baking powder; three-fourths teaspoon salt; three-fourths cup milk; four tablespoons melted shortening; one and one-half cups finely-diced bananas (about two bananas), one well beaten egg.

Mix and sift together the flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Combine beaten egg, milk and the shortening. Add gradually to dry ingredients and mix until smooth. Stir in banana. Place batter by spoonfuls in a hot waffle iron, spreading banana evenly over the iron. Bake about eight minutes, or until waffle is well-browned. Makes four waffles.

Spiced Apple Balls
Something new and colorful for the relish platter are spiced apple balls, cut from firm, tart apples with a French ball cutter. They are stuck with cloves and cook until tender and clear in a syrup of fruit juices and sugar, spiced with stick cinnamon.

Four firm tart apples, cut in balls with a French ball cutter. Three-fourths cup orange juice; one-fourth cup lemon juice; one cup granulated sugar; one cup water; whole cloves; two sticks cinnamon. Stick each ball with three whole cloves.

Make a syrup of the fruit juices, sugar and water, add the stick cinnamon and boil gently for five minutes. Add the apple balls and simmer slowly, turning balls frequently, until apples are clear and tender. Skim out balls, place in a bowl, add the syrup and chill.

Fish Fillets Baked in Mushroom Sauce
One pound sole or haddock fillets; two cups cream mushroom sauce; one-half teaspoon salt; one-half cup buttered crumbs.

Cut the fillets into individual servings. Arrange in a buttered baking dish, or on an oven glass platter. Sprinkle with salt. Cover with the sauce; sprinkle with the crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven 375 degrees F. for 30 minutes. Serving from the baking dish. Serve 4 to 6. Some foods find that a rich canned mushroom soup serves as excellent fish sauce. To make a sauce, use one-half pound mushrooms; wash and slice without peeling. Cook gently in four tablespoons butter in a saucepan for five minutes. Slowly add three tablespoons flour, mixing thoroughly. Stir in one and one-half cups milk; one-half cup cream; one-half teaspoon salt and few grains cayenne. Stir until sauce comes to boil, then pour immediately over fish fillets.

Fillers for Your Notebook
Water at drinking temperature makes an effective remover for grape or grape juice stains. It should be applied as soon as possible.

A hat stand and dress hanger of flowered challis are made for the convenience of a traveler. The conical hat stand lies flat in a suitcase and snaps into shape for use in a closet.

Slow cooking at a moderate temperature is recommended for fresh sausage. This method yields a juicy and well-flavored dish and minimized shrinkage. Keeping fresh sausage longer than two days, even in a refrigerator, sacrifices flavor and wholesomeness.

Guatemalan honey now is packed in attractive little brown jars. The honey owes its flavor to the coffee flower.

The distinctive flavor of Irish bacon is attributed to the rich Irish potatoes and milk upon which the pigs are fed, as well as to the special method used for smoking.

Hominy, pone, samp and succotash are old Indian names for corn dishes used by the earliest settlers.

There is such a demand these days for rich sour cream that all the dairy companies are carrying extra quantities for regular delivery, stored in convenient, wide-mouthed glass jars. This cream is delicious for sugar cookies and for those old-fashioned griddle-cakes.

Run a thin unnoticeable film of butter on the inside edge of that exasperating cream pitcher spout to prevent dripping.

Troop Scribes Give Weekly Reports on Activities

We hope you are as pleased with the following reports as we are. I hope that all the scribes not reporting will also turn over a new leaf. We have reports from two packs to give you this week.

Packs V and VI with Miss Anna-Jean Crabtree, and Betty Nichols as Brown Owls, have been doing some interesting work.

Those post Christmas weeks, most dreaded by pack leaders have really rounded themselves out beautifully, especially for our packs. We are "busily buzzing" over the Valentine party we plan to give our Brownie Mothers in a few weeks.

We do want this to be "the party" of the year, and with all the enthusiasm and suggestions, it cannot help but be a success.

We are making our own Valentines and some of the Brownies are making their own Valentines. A program has been planned with everyone participating which will certainly add to the gaiety.

After our party we have plans to start working on articles to be sent to the children's ward of the Cook county contagious hospital.

PACK VII

This pack has been meeting on Monday evenings at the E. C. Smith school. However, now that the new school is open, Pack VII is to meet at St. Mary's school.

Due to the pack not having a definite meeting room their program varied, and very little craft work could be done. However, they have been learning new games and songs.

This pack now meets on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

SENIOR GIRL SCOUTS

Despite the wind and cold, the Junior, Senior high school troop met Tuesday night at 7 o'clock at the home of Louise Miller.

After a brief business meeting conducted by our new leader Miss Naomi Wolf, the meeting was turned over to our guest speaker, Jack Keegan, a member of the Boy Scout troop that attended the Boy Scout World Jamboree in Holland this past summer. Following the camp, he also traveled in Germany, Italy, France, England and other European countries.

The talk was exceedingly interesting.

esting. Mr. Keegan relating stories of the people, towns, customs, etc.

Following his talk, Mr. Keegan was literally "pelted" with questions, but was able to answer any on all of the girls queries.

The meeting adjourned to meet in two weeks.

Troop IV

Troop IV met Monday with only three patrols present as the "Prepared Patrol" was excused to prepare food for the Patrol supper that night. The patrol was entertained by Virginia Bryant at her home. Each one passed table setting and several of the girls passed cooking. The food was delicious and each of the little cooks told how they prepared their dish.

Mrs. Bryant, Sue Bryant and Mrs. Dixon, Captain of Troop IV were the guests.

The troop has been very busy this month, working on first aid and fire prevention.

Our troop is 98 per cent perfect in uniform, and all of them are very festive in their new orange kerchiefs.

Marilyn Griswold, Scribe.

Troop V

Due to the increasing number of new Scouts, our troop has had to divide into four patrols instead of three. We have decided that it was due to "US" that our school team was losing in basketball, so we decided to get behind them and cheer, so we have changed our meeting night to Thursday, so from now on, on Tuesday nights you'll see us cheering away for our North Central team.

Mary Jane Lentor

Troop VI

Our meeting this week, was rather short. Mrs. Elfline took up the important business in the meeting, and then we had our closing. Following this our troop met at the home of one of our scouts, Joanne Gannon to say the Rosary for her father, Mrs. Williams Bowers, our lieutenant, accompanied us.

We have had two patrol suppers this month. The first one at the home of Bernice Joyce's, with 8 members of the patrol present, and Mrs. Bowers, and Miss Kelly as guests. The other at the home of Marilyn Thomas's with Mrs. Elfline our leader as guest. At both of these suppers the girls passed table setting, cooking and bed making for their Second Class badge.

Agnes McKune

Troop VII

All set! Everybody hold tight! Here we go! And down the snow-covered hills of the Plum Hollow club we speed with scarfs blowing and cheeks tingling. What fun we had. It was our troop's first winter picnic—a toboggan and coasting party. Highlights of the afternoon were, the sled race won by Susan Warner and Eleanor Jones, and Marie Kelly's tumble on ski's. Mrs. Robert Warner, a member of the troop committee, turned her car trunk into a lunch counter and served hot cocoa and cookies to the thirsty scouters during the afternoon.

Furnishing transportation to the coasting place were the following: Mrs. P. O. Heckman, Mrs. J. Dautler, Mrs. Warner, and Mrs. J. Paul Jones, troop lieutenant and Mrs. D. C. Bryant troop captain.

(Someone slipped up on the "high lights" as I'm sure you'd all agree that the time the troop captain and lieutenant, couldn't stay on the sled when they tried to go down backward—woe were they—right in the middle of the track—and did we laugh.)

We also had a patrol supper at the home of F. B. Jones. Each scout brought a dish prepared by herself. Following supper tests were passed on home activities. All members of the patrol were present. Our Capt. Lieut. and the local director were guests. Much fun was had by all.

Donna Marie Hannekan—Scribe.

Troop IX

Most of our time has been spent in making preparations for our dance. Planning menus, program and trying to get a place to hold it. But thanks to the American Legion men, that problem was solved. Each girl presented the name of a boy she wished to have invited, and the members of the troop committee, issued the invitations.

Next week we hope to tell you all about the fun we had at our party.

Joan Marloth—Scribe.

NURSES ALUMNI

The Nurses Alumni Assn. will meet at the Nurses' Home tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock.

FEEDING THE HUNGRY

A recent public health survey, financed by a $4,000,000 WPA allotment, resulted in the not too startling information that poor people are not as healthy as those who have money to spend on good food and doctors.

Simultaneously, Columbia University announced after exhaustive tests that $1.25 will provide three good meals per day for a family of five on relief.

For the $4,000,000 in relief funds spent on the health survey 3,200,000 five-person families (16,000,000 persons) could have been fed for one day. Taking it another way, more than 40,000 persons could have been fed for an entire year, using the university's menus.

The health survey probably provided some helpful information and gave some jobs to canvassers, but it's just possible that the well-being of poor people might have been benefited more by feeding 40,000 of them for a year than by inquiring about their health.

HOW THE SUPREME COURT WAS MADE

President Wilson appointed Justice Brandeis of Massachusetts to the supreme court of the United States from private practice. He advanced Justice McReynolds, originally from Tennessee, from the office of attorney general in his cabinet.

President Harding appointed Justice Butler of Minnesota from private practice.

President Coolidge elevated Justice Stone of New York from the cabinet, where he had served only a brief period as attorney general.

President Hoover recalled Justice Hughes to the court to serve as chief justice, after an intermission of twelve years in private practice and in the cabinet as secretary of state. He appointed Justice Cardozo, whom he took from the New York court of appeals. He appointed Justice Roberts, Pennsylvania, whom he called from private practice after prolonged service in the prosecution of the oil cases. He brought from Kentucky to Washington Stanley Reed and started him on the way to the court by way of the federal farm board and the Reconstruction Finance corporation, each of which he served as counsel.

President Roosevelt appointed Justice Black, Alabama, whom he took from the United States senate, and Justice Reed, who had been solicitor general subsequent to serving the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

WASHINGTON FACES ANOTHER DILEMMA

Washington struggles desperately to pull itself off the sharp horns of a dilemma, and while policy waits and ponders no one can be sure in which direction the next move will be made. It will be better for everybody when the picture clears.

Here are the two horns: Oil companies have just been convicted at Madison, Wis., of violating the anti-trust laws by conspiring to fix the price of gasoline—that is, by getting together and mutually working out production and distribution problems, with a resultant agreement on the price. This violates the anti-trust laws against "combinations in restraint of trade." Very well.

But we have on the law books of the country the Guffey act, which makes it necessary for the coal industry to do almost exactly that same thing by law. In fact, not so long ago, under the NRA, we had a national law under whose codes many industries set about standardizing production, competitive practices, and to a large extent prices.

Which road? Midnight oil burns in Washington in the effort to decide. On one side there is the feeling that restoration of true competition will bring prices down (and wages, no doubt, with them), and thus bring about greater production and more jobs.

On the other, there is the feeling that big business units ought to be allowed to get together and set universal wage standards, trade practices and, to a large extent, prices, always with the government sitting in to protect the wage-earner and consumer. That tends to eliminate competition, and raise both prices and wages. Wage-hour legislation follows this school of thought.

Labor, at least as exemplified by John L. Lewis, seems to have espoused the latter course. But other segments of labor distrust it, feeling that it places labor's future in the hands of government boards and conferences, rather than in its own strong hands.

To an outsider looking in, there would seem to be fundamental opposition between the two plans. Confusion must follow a policy that decrees with its right hand that industry must compete with industry, and labor with labor, and with the left hand decrees that industry must join hands with industry in meeting out the production and distribution field, and in portioning out labor's share.

Probably even this statement of the choice is too simple. Probably here as elsewhere nothing will work but eternal compromise. Perhaps certain large industries such as coal, and steel and utilities, must be permitted to combine under government auspices and supervision, while others, less highly integrated and widely organized, must face the rigors of competition.

But until there is something approaching a choice of policies, or at least a clear statement of adherence to both in marked-off spheres, there is likely to be more marking time than we can well afford.

APPRECIATIVE PENSIONER

If ever a man needed smelling salts to recover from astonishment it must have been that Ingham county, Michigan, pension official to whom a widow returned $1765 which she had drawn as a mother's pension, explaining she didn't need it any longer.

The widow, Mrs. Emma Fleischauer, was left destitute after the 1929 stock market crash, and thereafter eked out a meager living on her pension. Then her stocks began to come back, and now are paying dividends.

As soon as she had saved up the amount she had received in pensions, she returned the $1765 to Ingham county with her appreciative thanks.

In this mercenary world of ours, such action is almost inconceivable. Applause, please, for the Widow Fleischauer. It may never happen again.

BY DON DANIELSON

"After reading your column last Monday," writes Grant Biddle, "I thought that I might have a little dose for you to use, of course that is up to you. I am a newspaperman myself and I know it is tough going to ask the readers to send stuff, especially to a new corner. Although in time you will receive a lot of contributions we hope . . . So I will amble off now on something of something 'let's see, by the way, the last paragraph in the following is true; believe it or not.'"

Well, thanks for the letter, Grant—and thanks for the contribution too. Yours is the honor this week—so we tee off with

CHAPTER TWENTY

REMEMBER WHEN?

Years ago when we said good-night to the lady friend, we also made those stiff bows. As time went on, we got a kick out of kissing her hand but now, oh my, the young man comes home with marks of lipstick everywhere but the right place.

Along about this same time, those put-pu machines called automobiles stole the limelight of the horse and buggy days.

Remember how all the boys looted around the barber shop? They used to harmonize "Old Black Joe," then maybe one would stay out too late and come home later singing, "Sweet Adeline."

Then also, there was the day, when they had individual shaving mugs at the barber shop, that was way back when.

And remember the town gossip. Oh boy! What she didn't know. That might be why some newspapers had it tough sleddin'. Then—Remember how excited the gents got when Jesse James held up the stage in Amboy by the city park? (Location now.) That was one time when there wasn't a soul in the general store. It even broke up the checker game. I wonder, was he any relation to some of our modern "Hop-along Cassidy's"? We have the Irish but whether or not they are the hootin'-tootin'-shootin' kind or not, we don't know.

The Illinois Holstein-Friesian association's annual convention here has come and past, but before it becomes too much of a memory we pause to bring you the songs which

Tune: "Working on the Railroad"
"I've been working in the cow barn, Since the break of day, I've been working in the cow barn, Throwing down the hay, Grooming every cow and heifer, Combing out each tail, Don't you hear the calves a-bawling, Master, wash that pall."

Tune: "Smiles"

"There are cows that make you happy, There are cows that make you swear, There are cows that steal away the profits, As the clippers steal away the hair, There are cows that make a splendid record, And bring you fame in seven days, And we'll tell the world you've got to hand it, To the Holstein, the cow that pays."

Tune: "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here"

Hail! Hail! the Holstein cow She's a thing of beauty Always does her duty Hail! Hail! the Holstein cow She's the dairy cow for me.

AUTOMOBILES "SWAPPED"

IN 1937

Before the advent of the automobile, the "swapping" of horses was one of America's picturesque customs. * * * Yet horse trading in this country was a limited undertaking compared with the current automobile "swapping".

Approximately 9,000,000 automobiles were traded last year in the United States. * * * Whereas only a small part of the population in the old days owned horses, or was in what the merchants referred to as the "carriage trade", now two out of every three families in the United States own and operate automobiles of miscellaneous vintages. * * * The American Petroleum Institute.

Britain will complete three 35,000-ton battleships this year.

NEW HIGHS FOR 1937

* * * Petroleum spurred to an all-time record with crude oil production pouring out 1,280,000,300 barrels, well over the 1936 production of 1,098,516,000 barrels, the previous high. * * * Consumption of electricity in the U. S. reached the 119,000,000 kilowatt-hour level, recording a 9,315,642,000 kwh. gain over 1936. * * * Sales of air-conditioning equipment reached $85,000,000, more than $35,000,000 above 1936 sales levels. * * * Air transportation in the U. S. kept pace with the other makers of all-time highs. * * * Forbes.

Although the Falkland Islands have been held by Great Britain since 1834, Argentina still claims them.

"The keenest anguish known to human nature is the pain of a new idea." (Bagehot). We hope this column brings you pain.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. I heartily agree with President Angel, who is one of the great educators of our time, as was his father, President James B. Angel, of Ann Arbor. Dr. Angel points out that with newspapers, radio, automobiles and more numerous high schools and colleges, our young people have a body of sound information about both themselves and the world at age 18 or 20, far surpassing that of the young people even a generation ago. Of course he cautions the younger generation against abuse of their knowledge and freedom, but has confidence that they can and will render greater service because of their better education and more mature judgment in early years.

Brain Twizzlers

By PROF. J. D. FLINT

IF YOU HAVE ANY LET ME HEAR FROM YOU

The guy that draws these pictures is known as E. B. or Egg Bert. He grows a mustache and collects old (he calls them "hot") phonograph records.

One evening Egg Bert settled down to a "swing session" with his records and after playing one thousand, three hundred and forty-seven choice selections he wondered how far a phonograph needle travels while playing one record. He discovered the average circumference of the playing surface to be approximately twenty inches, the record's diameter 10 inches with seven inches of playing surface. The playing of the record required two hundred and eighteen revolutions.

How far does the needle travel?

Answer to Saturday's Twizzler

Here's how the linoleum was cut so that one piece could be given a quarter turn and be made to fit perfectly.

A YOUTH'S DREAMS

Dream on dear lad, of future building.

Dream on, of reaching man's estate.

Your fine physique and undimmed vision

Presents your plans on a clean slate.

Dear lad, your dreams of future building.

Is like a balm to my sick heart.

Where we have failed, your manhood takes you

On from where your dreams did start.

Dear lad, God's grace be always with you.

Let no trial your pure heart stain.

Life depends on strong, pure manhood.

Fail not then, this goal to gain.

In your dreams is there a maiden, Who would share your future life—

Who with faith and understanding Shall become your beloved wife?

Dream on dear lad, God be with you.

May your dreams materialize.

May you never lose the vision That rises now, before your eyes.

'NO STRIKE' PAST SIGNED

BY SWEDISH PRINTERS

Stockholm (AP)—Strikes and lockouts are forewarned for nine years in an agreement just concluded between Swedish newspaper owners and the printing trade unions.

The workers gained a seven to eight per cent wage increase in the form of a special "prosperity bonus" and three weeks' annual vacation with pay.

The agreement may be changed by negotiation. If this breaks down, the dispute goes to a board of impartial arbitrators.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion.

Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm.

Belvidere, Princeton Next on Dixon's Cage Bill Friday, Saturday

Tigers, Non-Conference Foe, Better Than In 1937

One conference and one non-conference basketball engagement will be played by the Dixon high basketball team Friday and Saturday nights.

Belvidere comes to Dixon Friday evening for a return engagement hoping to repeat its victory over the locals scored on the Belvidere floor just after the Christmas holidays. On Saturday night the Sharpshooters invade Bureau county for a non-conference tussle with the Princeton Tigers, reported to be a much stronger quint than that which represented that school last year.

Barbs Get Away

Within the conference fold Belvidere missed a chance to hold DeKalb's Barbs within reach of challenging teams by dropping a game to the Barbs thereby sending DeKalb into a two-game lead. DeKalb has won all four of its conference starts and lost none while Belvidere is now in third place place with .500 percentage, two games won and two lost. Sterling holds second place now with three victories and two defeats. Dixon is in fourth position and Rochelle brings up the rear with only one victory in five starts. In the lightweight division Belvidere is in the conference lead, having won four straight games.

The Sharpshooters showed up much better in their game with Mendota last Friday night. Starving for points the last few games, the Dixonites began averaging better on their shots and led by Arnold Salzman who counted ten points, dropped the buckets in from all angles in building up a sizeable lead that even a strong Mendota rally couldn't overcome.

Following are the North Central conference standings at present.

SPEED SKATING ON PREP SCHOOL SPORT CARD NOW

Aurora, Ill., Jan. 31—(AP)—Speed skating apparently has qualified for a place in Illinois high school sports competition.

The first ice race meeting ever sanctioned by the Illinois state high school athletic association was run off here Saturday with such success that coaches of schools represented will ask the association to make the event an annual affair.

They also will request the association to plan an indoor meet in March at the University of Illinois.

Tilden Tech of Chicago scored first in the team competition, scoring 275 points. Elgin high scored 110, East Aurora 75 and Crane of Chicago 10. Schools which failed to score were Geneva, Urbana, Rockford and West Aurora.

The senior class winners: 440 yards, Robert Roth, Elgin; 880 yards, Gerald Lennhardt, Tilden; mile, Gerald Lennhardt, Tilden; relay—Tilden Tech.

The junior class champions: 220 yards—Harold Stiefbold, East Aurora; 440 yards—John Andruch, Tilden; 880 yards—John Andruch, Tilden; relay—Tilden.

The Illinois skating championship, run off yesterday, were won by Eddie Schroeder and Miss Elaine Bogda of the Northwest club of Chicago. Schroeder made 80 points to retain his title. Miss Bogda scoring the same point total to displace last year's winner, Eleanor Thiel Dyer.

Miss Shirley Jameson, University of Illinois co-ed, placed third in the senior women's 440-yard race, won by Miss Bogda, and third in the one-mile event, won by Genevieve Swierkos of Chicago, with Miss Bogda taking second.

GOES TO CHICAGO

Chicago, Jan. 31—(AP)—Byron Harkce, a member of the professional staff at Northmoor for six years and located last season at Rockford, has returned to the Chicago district golf area and accepted a berth as professional with the newly-organized Rosell Country club.

COOPER POCKET'S OAKLAND OPEN TOURNAMENT PRIZE

Oakland, Calif., Jan. 31—(AP)—Harry Cooper pocketed $1,200 and the title of Oakland open golf champion today and headed for new fields.

The slender English-born professional yesterday posted a 72-hole total of 275 to set a par-shattering pace for a formidable field.

Cooper put together rounds of 70-66-71 and 68. He needed an eagle three to win as he came to the final hole—453 yards long. A bee-line drive and second wood shot put his ball nine feet from the pin. He sized up the putt, remarked "here goes for the money" and tapped the pellet into the cup while 4,000 fans gave him a winner's ovation.

Par for the Sequoyah course is 35-35. Cooper's second round 66 was the lowest of the tournament. He finished the final 18 in 26-32.

Tied for second place, a stroke behind Cooper, were Jimmy Hines, Garden City, N. Y., and Charley Sheppard, Pleasanton, Calif. Hines posted a final 73, after previous cards of 67-67 and 69.

Sheppard had rounds of 73-69-68 and 67. Sheppard and Hines each won $650.

John Perelli, Tahoe, Calif., scored a 277 to take fourth prize. Last year's Oakland open winner, Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., tied with four others for last position. His share this time was $56.

Such pre-tournament favorites as Jimmy Thomson, Lawson Little, Horton Smith and Byron Nelson all failed to profit.

BALL PLAYER'S WIFE OUGHT TO BE ON PAYROLL

St. Petersburg, Fla., Jan. 31—(AP)—Mrs. Johnny Allen finds that being the wife of a baseball star is a tough job and, says she, "sometimes I think I should be on the club's payroll."

"It's quite a job regulating my husband's diet, seeing that he gets the proper amount of sleep and intercepting well-wishers who have a habit of calling at odd hours for autographs," said the wife of the Cleveland Indians' pitcher who won 15 games in a row last season.

Allen smiled his assent. Mrs. Allen, who describes herself as Johnny's "chief sentry," paused in the midst of a busy session of packing trunks and suitcases to explain the hustle and bustle.

"I think Johnny has been off his feed lately and were going to Hot Springs, Ark., to steam out the trouble."

Although Johnny shows no outward symptoms, Mrs. Allen asserted, she felt something was wrong when he declined to go on a fishing trip with several cronies a few mornings ago.

"That was the first time he ever did that," Mrs. Allen asserted, "next to baseball, Johnny likes fishing best."

"Although his trim appearance belies it," she remarked, casting a proud glance at her husband, "Johnny is what is known as a 'feeder'."

"I believe he would eat himself right out of baseball if I didn't watch him. Why, to him, a porter-

OLDER COLLEGE CONFERENCE IN CAGE SPOTLIGHT

Rampant Bradley Not Defeated Since Last Season

Chicago, Jan. 31—(AP)—The Illinois Intercollegiate athletic conference takes the basketball spotlight away from its younger Illinois college rival in championship action this week, but a non-conference battle promises to detract the attention of both before the week is up.

Those rampant Bradley cagers, pacing the Illinois college loop with three triumphs, risk their season's string of 11 straight victories against Northwestern Saturday in the non-conference feature. Not since the Wildcats, present leaders of the Big Ten, whipped them last season have the Techmen lost a game. They won five in a row after the setback, which with this season's string, gives them a record of 16 consecutive victories.

While the Peorians are building up to their "revenge" game and Illinois Wesleyan is planning for another non-conference headliner against De Paul, the North Central-Millikin and Augustana-Knox games will supply the championship feature of the week.

In the Illinois intercollegiate group nine conference games are scheduled. South Teachers of Carbondale, who went into undisputed leadership with their third win last week just as Bradley did in the Illinois college race, will defend their position against Eastern Teachers of Charleston.

Western Teachers of Macomb, the only other undefeated member, may meet even stronger opposition when it encounters State Normal, State Normal, which also plays Eureka during the week, has lost but one game in four starts, and stands to take over the lead should either of the pace-setters falter.

St. Viator is the busiest team of the week. It battles three conference foes—Northern Teachers, McKendree and Eastern Teachers—all away from home. Other title games include the Shurtleff-Eureka engagement in which both teams will be fighting to leave the cellar.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Exchange on the countries neutral during the war presents mixed trends. The Scandinavian currencies move in closest sympathy with sterling. The Scandinavian currencies seem not to have been touched by the business recession experienced in many other countries. Business of every description seems to be at high levels. This is especially true of Sweden. — Financial Chronicle.

IRISH FOOTBALL CAPTAINCY JINX WORKING AGAIN

Shellogg, Captain - Elect, 1938 Has Left School

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 31—(AP)—The Notre Dame football captaincy jinx is at work again. Announcement Saturday that Alex Shellogg, captain-elect for 1938, had withdrawn from school under circumstances which aroused a lot of campus comment made it the fourth successive grid leader at the Irish school to be dogged by hard luck.

As a result the superstition that election as captain means misfortune is becoming almost as much of a tradition at Notre Dame as is the strength of the Irish gridiron teams.

In 1935 Joe Sullivan was elected captain of the team but he died two months before the season opened. In 1936 the captain was Bill Smith but a series of operations made it impossible for him to compete in a single game.

Zweers Never Saw Duty
Last year the captain was Joe Zweers, but an injury suffered prior to the 1936 game with Southern California game never healed sufficiently for him to see regular duty.

There was no official announcement as to the reason for Shellogg's withdrawal from school but the campus gossip had it that it was a disciplinary measure.

Two weeks ago Fred Shellogg, Alec's brother, was dismissed from school, charged with having violated one of the school's most stringent rules. Information on the campus was that an investigation implicated Alec.

Alec was not dismissed and may return to school next fall but under Notre Dame's eligibility rules he can not compete in football.

SIDELIGHTS ON MOTORING

National average price of gasoline in 1937 was only about 14½ cents a gallon as compared with nearly 30 cents in 1920. Automotive transportation is regarded by economists as one of the most important social and economic "energizers" of history. Motorists of 1937 paid nearly one billion dollars in gasoline taxes to federal and state governments. — American Petroleum Institute.

JIM BRADDOCK RETIRES FROM BOXING GAME

Definitely Announces Retirement! Has Money Now

New York, Jan. 31—(AP)—Jimmy Braddock, the man who came back from "nowhere" to win the world heavyweight championship and a lot of cash money he needed very badly, has reached the place most fight fans thought he was in 1933. He is all though with fighting.

Jimmy, confirming the belief that he's a pretty smart fellow as fighters go, announced his retirement yesterday. He has been fighting since 1926, he admits to 32 years and he proved he still is a pretty good man with his dukes when he outpointed Tommy Farr 10 days ago.

All that being settled, Jimmy announced: "I have spent 15 years in the game, and in fairness to everyone, but especially my wife and children, I believe it is time for me to withdraw."

Braddock's announcement was not entirely unexpected, as there had been talk of his retirement ever since he lost the title to Joe Louis last summer and took a terrific beating before he was knocked out.

After handing out thanks to his "manager and friend," Joe Gould, the fans, newspaper men and boxing officials, Braddock went on to explain that he would continue his association with Gould in a new business venture.

To Stay With Gould
"My retirement does not mean the end of my professional association with Joe Gould," his announcement said. "I will be as helpful to him as I can in the management of other boxers and he and I will engage in another business enterprise, the plans for which will be announced shortly."

Just a pretty good fighter during the first part of his career, Braddock missed out as a light heavyweight title contender after whipping most of the leading 175-pounders. After losing to champion Tommy Loughran in 1929, he slowly went down grade and finally quit fighting entirely after cracking his hand in a bout with Abe Feldman in 1933.

Hauled out of oblivion as "fodder" for Corn Griffin, a 1934 heavyweight contender, he won the fight on a three-round knockout and went on to make himself a heavyweight title contender. He was given a title shot against Max Baer, a 10 to 1 favorite, and lifted the crown right off Maxie's head.

Durable Lash Hunting More Track Honors
New York, Jan. 31—(AP)—Don Lash, the Indiana university graduate student who proved that Americans can run two miles as fast as the hardy Finns who are noted for their ability to gallop long distances, is looking for further honors at the classic mile distance this season.

Durable Don, the first American to beat nine minutes for two miles, set the world record at 8:58 last winter. He followed up that feat at Princeton, N. J., last spring by running a virtual dead heat with Archie San Romani in the second-fastest mile on record in the time of 4:07.2. He's been noted for his ability to double up on those grueling races in college meets.

Lash has laid out a new task for himself this season, however, by entering both the mile and two-mile events in the big indoor invitation meets.

Don tried the feat for the first time in the Prout Memorial games at Boston Saturday and he's listed for another attempt in the Millrose A. A. games next Saturday night.

At Boston he sprinted down the stretch to nip Joe McCluskey and win the two miles in the creditable time of 9:04.6. Some 25 minutes later he started in the mile against such famous athletes as Glenn Cunningham, San Romani, and Gene Venzke and made it very interesting for those three for a while. But Cunningham won, finishing in 4:13.8 about 12 yards in front of San Romani, with Venzke third.

Practically all the winners at the Boston meet are listed in the Millrose field.

Oddest entry is the North Texas Teachers college medley relay team, consisting of two sets of twins, Elmer and Delmer Brown and Wayne and Blaine Rideout.

Tomorrow's airplane land transport is described by engineers as having a gross weight of about 20 tons, a useful load of about six tons, a flying range of 1,250 miles, and a speed of 225 miles an hour on two engines.

SCHMELING ON WAY TO CROWN BEATS FOORD

Says His 12-Round Bout Furnished Good Practice

Hamburg, Jan. 31—(AP)—Max Schmeling, eager to become the first ex-heavyweight champion to regain the world title, congratulated himself today on his 12-round victory over Ben Foord of South Africa, former British Empire champion.

It wasn't that Foord had proved such a tough opponent. In fact some fans were a bit disappointed that Max hadn't knocked him out or at least knocked him down. But according to Schmeling the fight just suited his plans.

Puffed to a Snow Plow Stall in Michigan Storm

Smoke billowing from their stacks but turning never a wheel, these locomotives pushing a powerful V-type snow plow met their ultimate test in the smothering, white drifts at Ford River, Mich., after the century's worst blizzard. The snow plow was stalled, when pictured above, on the main line of the upper peninsula division of the Chicago and Northwestern railway. Trains did not run at all during the height of the blizzard.

Science Drafted Him but He Got Cold Feet

Future comfort of the human race hung on the opportunity that science gave the man, seated, center above, but he got cold feet. Purpose of the whole affair was to determine what constitutes a draft and how people react to them. A stream of cold air was directed at the feet of the man with his legs in the "ankle boxes." While the man at the left took electrical readings of the skin temperature, the fellow with the cold feet recorded his comfort reactions on the chart he holds. The tests were performed in a Pittsburgh laboratory.

Warden Lets Down the Bars to Fun

Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing Prison proves that he can take punishment as well as hand it out at his initiation, in New York City, into the festive Saints and Sinners Club. Garbed in prison stripes, he sits behind the bars, apparently enjoying his bread and water diet. When he sawed his way out of the cell with a hand saw, he was a full-fledged member.

Italy's Star Plays Domestic Role

Years of stage successes for striking Marta Abba, Italian star, were climaxed in a new role for her with a Cleveland marriage to wealthy American, Severance Millikin, one of the Ohio city's most eligible bachelors. Mr. and Mrs. Millikin, shown above after their wedding, met in New York more than a year ago when Signorina Abba first appeared in this country. The bride, best known as the Russian grand duchess in "Tovarich," laughed when asked if she would give up her career.

Rumania's Prince Mike Grows Up

While his country struggles through the rigors of a new government and an anti-Jewish campaign, Rumania's Prince Michael grows up, as this picture shows. At left, he walks beside King George of Greece on an inspection tour at Athens. Prince Michael now 16, and tall for his age, was in Greece to attend the wedding of Crown Prince Paul to Princess Fredorika Luise of Hanover.

Footloose Coed

Wearing shoes is a terrible price to pay for an education, according to Ingrid Larsen, coed at the University of Minnesota and a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. At home in Hawaii she never wore shoes, so Miss Larsen duffs hers as soon as she gets home from classes. Above, barefooted, she is garbed in a holoko, formal Hawaiian party dress.

He May Wear Norway Crown

This laughing baby may one day wear a crown for he is Prince Harald, 9-month-old son of Crown Prince Olaf and Crown Princess Martha, of Norway, pictured above in his pram during a daily trip through the royal park at Oslo. Prince Harald, although the youngest of Crown Prince Olaf's three children, takes precedence over his sisters, Princess Ragnhild and Princess Astrid.

Resignation Hits GOP in Senate

Because it seemed certain Governor Charles M. Martin would appoint a Democrat to fill the unexpired term, the resignation of U. S. Senator Frederick Steiwer, Republican, of Oregon was taken as a blow to the GOP bloc in the upper house of Congress. His going reduces the Republican minority to 16.

Kicking Against Silkless Society

Washington saw its biggest "leg show" of the year when 300 Philadelphia hosiery workers marched up Constitution avenue swinging silk-clad ankles, as shown here, to protest a Japanese silk boycott sponsored by the capital's society strata. While the debutantes held a "Life Without Silk" fashion show, the hosiery workers took their case to the White House. They pointed out that a boycott on Japan could close 130,000 jobs, since nearly all silk stockings are made in United States.

A Bottle of Helium for Germany

First shipment of helium ever to leave the United States, this big steel bottle of gas from the Amarillo, Texas, fields is consigned to Germany. It is part of the 17,900,000 cubic feet to be used in the new LZ-130, sister ship of the ill-fated Hindenburg. The gas is transported in 468 of these bottles aboard the German steamer Dessau, shown here at the dock in Houston.

Neutrals Fleeing Japs Invasion

Carrying children on their backs and aided by coolies who shouldered huge packs, 1200 foreign residents of Hankow, China, fled from their homes before the advancing Japanese armies, as shown in the dramatic picture above. Four "International Trains" were chartered. Note the soldier guarding the train steps.

As U. S. 'Flag Train' Fled Hankow

Entraining out of Hankow, China, under the protection of huge foreign flags, such as the American banner shown strikingly above, four "International Trains" evacuated more than 1200 neutrals before approaching Japanese soldiers arrived. The nationals were taken to the British crown colony, Hong Kong.

School Strikes for Their Love

The right of pretty Mary Grubbs, top, 18-year-old senior, to date Coach Hugh Wynn, below, whom she plans to marry after graduation, precipitated a strike in Dothan, Alabama's, high school and threats to bomb the building. The football coach resigned on request, but after students struck he announced he would fight for reinstatement.

Swinging on the Swingers

This is no Hollywood act. It's Hollywood acting up. Bride Betty Grable in South Sea island dress is swinging an island stomp with Actor Jon Hall, who roared into Director Frank Borzage's Hawaiian party in the same outfit he wore in "Hurricane." And looking a bit savage, Betty's husband Jackie Coogan stands ready, apparently, to do a bit of swinging himself.

HITCHES SKIS TO AN AIRPLANE

Tired of the more common methods of skiing behind horses, motorcycles, and automobiles, and having nothing else to do, Bain Ecarus (Shorty) Fulton, Akron airport manager, hitches his skis to an airplane. Fulton is being towed across the snow-covered airport. A second or two later, the tow-line broke, plane was in the air, and Shorty was in a snowbank, which he would not have found in clouds.

WE are apt to think of the mighty ice masses of the north as frozen from large quantities of open water. Yet all the great sheets that held whole continents during the Ice Age were formed by the packing, partial melting and re-freezing of countless billions of tiny snowflakes.

lumbia professor, and Under Secretary of Agriculture, now vice president of the American Molasses company.

Charles Tausig, head of the same molasses company, who never has held any administrative position in the New Deal but has played a powerful role behind the scenes.

Adolf Berle, Tausig's business attorney, a member of Mayor La Guardia's cabinet, and recently offered the federal job of Assistant Secretary of State.

Clashing Theories

The latter group believes in monopolies—though in no such way as to bring joy to the heart of the monopolist. The Brain Trusters are not seriously disturbed by the size of giant corporations; in fact, they believe that an economy based on large industrial units rather than "little fellows" makes for cheaper prices and easier government supervision.

This is one of the most important points in their program. They want the government to regulate the trusts, not break them.

Probably this is an over-simplified statement of a very complex theory, but in general the Brain Trusters lean toward a new NRA through which industry, under government direction, would operate on a carefully planned, high-production, low price basis.

Such a program, according to the Brain Trust, is exactly the reverse of the NRA as manhandled by General Johnson and Donald Richberg, who gave the monopolies a free hand and whose guiding motto was: "Hold down production and boost prices."

Richest Girl in the World

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
CONSTANCE CORBY—heroine; richest girl in the world.
BRET HARDESTY—hero; bridge builder.
RODNEY BRANDON—Connie's fiancé.
KATIE BLYN—Connie's "double."

Yesterday, Bret turns the tables on Connie and leaves so she may win her divorce uncontested.

CHAPTER XXIII

WHEN Connie reached the pier where "The Constance," her million-dollar yacht, was docked, ready for a midnight sailing, she thought at first that Rodney was not yet there. There was no one in sight, no sound except the swish of waves lapping against the sides of the big white boat, whose lights shimmered in myriad reflections upon the dark water. Then as she started up the plank, Rodney stepped from the shadows.

"My dear—you did come! I was afraid you wouldn't. I couldn't believe it, really. I can't believe it now." He caught her arm, held her off, as though he would feast his eager eyes upon the reality of her presence.

"I've been waiting a long while," he said. "Though I knew you had said midnight, I've been waiting all my life for this moment, Connie dearest."

"I'm sorry," she said, in a voice that sounded weary and tired, "to have kept you waiting, Rodney. I'm sorry for what I have come to tell you. Rodney, dear—I want to thank you for trying to be of some use to me, for being such an understanding friend, for waiting so terribly long. . . . But, Rodney, I came to tell you: I'm not going."

"Not going!" He dropped her arm, stood staring at her. He was so taken back that he looked a bit foolish. Here they were, just the two of them, at midnight, as they had planned, half way up the gangplank to the yacht that was to take them away together—and Connie stood here telling him she was not going.

"No. I'm not going." She waited a moment. "We could go in and talk. But I haven't much time to spare. I'm going away, but not with you, Rodney."

"I don't believe I quite understand you," he drew himself up; spoke stiffly.

"I don't expect you to. But I came to try to help you to understand. I didn't want to run away from you again, Rodney. I'm never going to run from anything again. I've found that isn't the way to escape, the way to find freedom—or happiness."

well that small business has some advantages. As vice president of the American Molasses Company, he is now operating the smallest sugar refinery in the United States, and according to him it is also the most efficient.

The Brandeis Theory
In opposition to this view are the Jackson-Ickes-Douglas group, disciples of Justice Brandeis. The Brandeis theory is that all monopolies, all big business, all chain stores must be broken up, that there are certain natural monopolies such as railroads, public utilities, and natural resources, but all other industry must be small.

Vast enterprises, according to the Brandeis theory, are beyond the competent management of human beings, so that a new NRA would mean the complete enthronement of big business and the wiping out of the little fellow.

Therefore this group of Presidential advisers wants new and stronger anti-trust laws, with larger and tougher machinery to enforce them.

Note:—Incidentally, Senator Borah, veteran foe of monopolies although not a New Dealer, has been giving quite but potent help to the trust-busters.

Presidential Favor

The pulling and pushing of these two groups explain why so many conflicting viewpoints have come from the White House.

First there was the storm of anti-monopoly attacks led by Ickes and Bob Jackson, in which Roosevelt himself participated in his Jackson Day speech.

Immediately afterward came the White House visit of the Brain Trust, the Labor Trust and the Money Trust (Tausig, John Lewis, Owen D. Young and Tom Lamont).

After this the President let it be known that he favored "planned industrial production under government supervision."

This was a definite victory for the Tugwell-Tausig-Berle doctrine. But a week later Roosevelt shifted back again to the Jackson-Ickes-Douglas side when he denounced "all" holding companies.

Furthermore, when the Fifty Big Business men came to see him and some of them denounced the Ickes-Jackson speeches, Roosevelt stood by his guns and gave full support to his two foremost trust-busters.

"I KNOW," Connie said. She laid a hand on his sleeve; her eyes were full of a sort of pity, her smile sweet and sorrowful. "I don't blame you, Rodney, for taking it this way. But at least, as I said, I didn't run away again. You see I'm not going to divorce Bret. That wouldn't do any good. I would still be married to him, Rodney. He would still be my husband. Nothing could change that, not even if I were married to you."

"You never belonged together. It was all a mistake. He'll always be different. Not of your world. Or you of his. . . ."

"Then we'll have to make still another one," Connie said. You see, Rodney, there's something else—the strongest thing in the world, bigger than any of us, than all the money, our foolish impulses and desires, than logic or reason. It's love, Rodney."

"You think you love Bret, then?"
"I know I love him. Oh, I was foolish enough for a little while to pretend that I didn't. I'm a great pretender, didn't you know that, Rodney?" Her laugh rang out on the still night air, rippling, edged with an acid bitterness. "I pretend at whatever amuses me for the moment. At being miserable, or gay—or somebody else—or even at being just what I truly am. I'm spoiled and pampered and young and foolish. I've always had everything, except the one thing I wanted, that I could not buy with all my millions. But now, Rodney, I've grown up, at last. Maybe too late. I'm not sure. For the thing I want, that is, maybe too late to try again. To stop pretending for all time."

"And so," she finished, and now she held out her hand to him, "this is goodbye, Rodney. I am sorry I could not love you. Sorry to have to hurt you a second time. I shall think of you as my very good friend, always."

"You're going after Bret," Rodney said. It was not a question. He accepted her hand, held it between his own, let it go, reluctantly.

"Yes. If I can find him. If he'll give me another chance."

"He will. No man could refuse you. You're very beautiful, and desirable, Connie. And—no matter what you think, what you've said about yourself—you're very brave, too."

"Thank you, Rodney dear." There were tears shining in her eyes, a lump in her throat. "I'm not really. Though I'll try to be. Because you thought of me. Goodbye again, my dear. I must hurry. Will you explain to Captain Stevens? And—will you say a little prayer for me, Rodney?—I feel I shall need it."

He did not answer, except with his eyes, promising her anything within his power to give her. He stood, looking after her, as she turned, almost running, to go down the gangplank again, to the car that she had kept waiting.

Before she got in, she turned once more and waved at him. A gallant little up-flung movement. Her head thrown back in that way he knew so well.

Then she was gone. He knew he would not see her again. This time she would not come running back to him.

"To Jersey. The airport," Connie said to the chauffeur. "Make it as quickly as you can, without getting arrested for speeding, or running anyone down." On her way to the pier she had stopped at a drug store and phoned Winton, her pilot, to have her plane, "The Skyrocket," a 450-horsepower engine, ready to take off. She would pilot herself. She knew she could trust Winton to keep her departure secret.

This was not another mad impulse. It was the result of those long hours since Bret had walked out of the drawing room of the brownstone mansion; hours through which Connie had lived what might have been an eternity. For during them, through her tears and remorse, her pride and her shame, she had, as she had told Rodney, grown up. The myth that had been Constance Corby was dead.

This girl, white-faced, small hands clenched tightly, heart beating hard, yet with a single steady purpose, was another person. Not the old Katie Blyn, not the heiress of all those millions. She was just herself, a woman, without pretense, going after the man she loved, the man whose wife she was and always would be, forever and ever.

Whether she would find him or not, whether she would have found him too late that was still, as she had said, unanswered. She did not believe that Bret loved her any more. If he had loved her he could not have walked out of the room, out of her life. He could not have relinquished all that he held to be right, allowing her to win.

An empty victory. For with it she had lost all that counted in the world, the one person without whom she could not go on living. Would Bret give her another chance? Would he forgive, and understand, a second time? Would love be big enough for this?

You and Your Nation's Affairs

Trying to Help in a Pinch

By J. E. LE ROSSIGNOL

Dean, College of Business Administration, Nebraska University

"It is easy to criticize, Sandy," confessed Professor McAndrew Cantile to his sympathetic Scottie, who looked up with tears in his eyes as though mourning for the sins of his master who, thereupon, was moved to make a complete and good confession. "Yes," he continued, "and I have done it many a time and, possibly, may have been guilty of capricious criticism of men and measures. Reminding me of the bellicose slogan at the Donnybrook fair: 'Wherever you see a head hit it.' But now, Sandy, with the Christmas season so soon passed, with peace still in my soul, I have been shopping among the scribes and publicists, seeking for positive contributions to public welfare, something constructive, as it were, to offer my readers as a much belated but I hope, nevertheless, a welcome gift.

"Aweel! As you know, Sandy, words are more plentiful than ideas. But after reading some thousands of words about our temporary recession and the way to start the procession again, I have found a few gems of seasoned thought so often reiterated, and by such respectable writers, that I think they must be expressions of wisdom which, if properly understood and followed, will yield, as my friend Professor Pigou says, both light and fruit. So here are some of them, Sandy, for your consideration.

"For one thing, we are told on the best authority, that all citizens—business people, statesmen, wage-earners, and whatnot—should bury the hatchet and cheerfully work together for the general good. Collective cooperation is the watchword, a new version of our old Scottish slogan: 'Highlander shoulder to shoulder.'"

"We are also authoritatively told that the end of all our joint cooperation and striving should be a balanced abundance of the necessities and luxuries of life, the goods and services which constitute the good life."

Traveling Around America

RUG MAKER AND FAITHFUL FRIEND

THE pup looks a bit bored, but he'll stand by until his master is ready to shut up shop and play. As for the master, a native of Ecuador, he's making one of those gorgeous rugs for which his region is famous—following the same colors and designs used by the early Andean weavers hundreds of years ago.

Textiles woven by the Indians of pre-Inca and Inca days were found in the ancient tombs in a remarkable state of preservation and are on display in museums visited by travelers taking the weekly cruises to Ecuador, Peru, and Chile. The ancient tapestries, rugs, and costumes reveal excellent workmanship and matchless skill in design and combination of colors. The textiles include cottons much finer in weave than our cotton today, woolen fabrics woven of fine vicuña wool so glossy it resembles heavy silk, broad materials, cottons exquisitely embroidered with wool, fine gauzes and voiles, crocheted and knitted fabrics, fine cloth hung with spangles of gold, copper and silver with an effect something like our sequins, and woven materials covered completely with bright-hued feathers—the tiny breast feathers of the humming bird were highly prized for this work because the smaller the feather, the finer the garment. Designs were usually geometrical or conventionalized and presented a daring combination of colors. Colors and designs generally were woven into the fabrics, but often were painted on the material by hand or printed. The dyeing also was practiced. However, whatever the methods used, the ancient Peruvian textiles are unequalled even by those found in the sarcophagi of Egypt.

Cinderella

Child Transported From Shanghai to Like Chicago

Chicago, Jan. 31—(AP)—Mary, a blonde little "Shanghai Cinderella," rolled her big blue eyes today over things she never saw before and told her benefactors, who found her starving in the Far East, that "I know I'm going to like it in Chicago."

The 7-year-old girl arrived yesterday to live with Mr. and Mrs. J. Rodd Moffatt. They came across the child four years ago in Shanghai. Her Swedish father was dead and her Russian mother poverty-stricken.

"There were many other children," Mrs. Moffatt said, "too many for Mary to be properly cared for. She was starving. Nearly all my friends there took care of a needy child. It was just like contributing to a community fund."

"We have a large house, and servants, so we took Mary in to live with us, and later sent her to school. Then last year we decided to come home by way of Europe for a visit. We thought it would be nice for Mary to spend the summer with us before we returned to China, so we arranged to have her come to San Francisco, and she made the trip across the Pacific alone."

"And then," Mrs. Moffatt explained, "there was war and we couldn't get back. We left Mary in school on the west coast while we came to Chicago to get settled, and then sent for her."

Mrs. Moffatt said she planned to adopt Mary, and educate her here and in Europe. The little girl speaks Russian, Chinese and English.

Weekly payrolls of industrial workers may reflect less favorable comparisons with the preceding year's levels in the weeks ahead than was the case in December, although employe hours worked do increase.

Payrolls in December registered a much better comparison with the 1936 level than did hours worked, because of higher wage rates.—Journal of Commerce.

DAUGHTER BORN TONETHERLANDS QUEEN: REJOICE

Amsterdam, The Netherlands, Jan. 31—(AP)—Princess Juliana of The Netherlands today gave her little land of tulips, thrift and windmills a girl princess who may be its third consecutive woman ruler.

The whole nation joined in rejoicing before the last echoes of the royal salute announced that the long wait at the little white Soestdijk palace was ended with the birth of a girl.

The Hague issued a proclamation printed in orange and blue, the royal colors. It said:

"Fellow citizens, it is with deep-felt joy that we proclaim that today, January 31, 1938, through the grace of God is born to Princess of Orange-Nassau, Princess of Lippe Biesterfeld, whereby the heart's desire of all Netherlands' people is realized. Long live the royal family."

Both the mother and baby were reported doing well.

Among the first messages of congratulations for the Princess Juliana and her husband, Prince Bernhard, was one from King George and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain.

A salute of 51 guns, instead of the 101 scheduled in the event of a boy, was fired at Amsterdam, The Hague, Arnhem, Breda and Amersfoort garrisons.

The Netherlands populace had hoped for a male heir, who would have been the first in direct line to the throne in 54 years. Unless Juliana has a son the new princess may one day become queen, following her grandmother Queen Wilhelmina and her mother.
